4                   ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

5                   The present invention provides a system and method for 6                   managing a financial investment in a combination of timed 7                   purchases of stocks and sale of options. The system and 8                   method also relates to the selection of stocks and amount 9                   of shares to purchase when to purchase shares and when and 10                  how many option contracts to sell concerning the purchased 11                  stocks. The system and method also involves the selection 12                  of multiple positions in multiple stocks and options for 13                  different sized investment funds.
